

To whom it may concern,

I could not have learned as much, nor gained as much valuable work experience from doing any other summer internship program besides College Works. Very few experiences allow students to become an important part of a company to the degree that CWP does. Those who have worked as interns before know the drill - you are often only given menial tasks to accomplish like making copies, filing documents etc. College Works, on the other hand, gives you nearly unlimited opportunity, and lets you decide what you want to do with it. However, with opportunity comes responsibility. It is up to you to source and train your employees, book your own jobs, and ensure that your customers are satisfied, but if you work hard and stay committed, you can show all the people who don't think you can handle responsibility how to run a $60,000 business.

Will Paulus
Washington University
Managed 2006